

Web page designer research

With your new found skills as a webpage designer it's time to look around and see just what web page design in the real world looks like. For this assignment you need to research information about web page designers and answer the following questions on a separate document. Be sure to answer in complete sentences and provide proof when you can.

What experience is required to become a web page designer?

What is the average pay for a web page designer?

What degree is required to be a webpage designer?

Where else can you get the experience needed to be a designer?

The next part of this assignment is to find a local business that needs a web page designer. To find jobs you can use something like monster.com, aggielandhelpwanted.com or just simply google "webpage designer jobs". Once you find a job you should see what kind of skills are required to get this job.

What is the job position?

Who is the job for?

Is it full or part time?

What does it pay?

Are you qualified for this job? Why or why not?

Using WIX create a sample web page that you could showcase to that specific company (this will require a little research/sleuthing on your part) included the link to your page on your assignment.

Finally, create and include a pretend application for the job! Even if you don't match all the requirements for a design job (short of time commitments) web page designers are in high demand, you would be amazed at what jobs you can get just by applying to them!
